SATURDAY, JULY 21, 1855.

That Eastern telegraph line is again on of working order. As it is down oftener and longer than it is up, we shall hereafter to save troublous announce when it is working, and say nothing about it when it don't work.

It will be seen from the New Orleans dispatches that the Verandah Hotel has been turned down.

The Eastern dispatches we copy from the Cincinnati papers.

We have received a copy of the Geography and History, &c., by Goodrich, from the authorized agent for the work in this State, Mr. John Dickens, who is making the necessary arrangements for canvassing the city and State. Persons in this city desiring to subscribe for this work can have an opportunity of doing so, as Mr. Dickens will wait on them at their private houses and places of business. When not canvassing, he may be found at Madden's book-store, on Third street, near the post-office.

THE BARBECUE AT PARIS.—The railroad celebration at Paris on Thursday drew together an immense concourse of people, and among them a very large number of ladies. The celebration passed off to the satisfaction of every one. Speeches were made by Hon. Garrett Davis and a number of other gentlemen. The barbecue was splendid and the ball at night was a brilliant affair.

We are requested to say that Col. Marshall will address the people of Henry county at Newcastle on Monday next, and of course will not be present at the proposed festivities at the Woodland Garden in this city.

The river is falling fast. Last evening there were scant 6 feet water in the canal and 4 feet on the falls. We had several heavy showers last evening which tended somewhat to cool the air.

The Western division of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad is to be sold by auction at the court-house door in St. Louis on the 8th of August next.

A burlesque procession took place at Cincinnati on Thursday evening, in honor of the appointment of Hon. Geo. E. Pugh as Major General by Gov. Medill.

We received by mail last evening St. Louis papers of Thursday. This is doing pretty well.

Edwin Williams, of Covington, has received a patent for an improved excavating machine.

Patton, a commissioner in Hamilton co., Ohio, has been tried for misconduct in office and found guilty.

Dan Callaghan was hung at New Orleans on the 13th.

GRAND LODGE OF KENTUCKY OF I. O. O. F.—This body concluded its labors yesterday, having been in session since Tuesday last. Representatives from all parts of the State were in attendance. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Grand Lodge.

J. M. Mills, Frankfort, M. W. G. M.
Amos Shickle, Covington, R. W. D. G. M.
A. J. Francis, Covington, R. W. G. W.
Wm. White, Louisville, R. W. G. S.
John Fonda, Louisville, R. W. G. T.
Chas. Woolford, Louisville, R. W. G. R.

Grand Encampment.

B. I. Raphael, Louisville, M. W. G. C. P.
W. J. Cornell, Louisville, M. E. G. H. P.
J. Hambrick, Covington, R. W. G. S. W.
F. B. Blackston, Shelbyville, R. W. G. J. W.
Matt. Neil, Louisville, R. W. G. S.
John Fonda, Louisville, R. W. G. T.
J. B. Hinkle, Louisville, R. W. G. S.

MYSTEROUS AFFAIR.—On Sunday last the body of a man named Jonathan Street, of Platte county, Mo., but who has relations in this county, was found in a field on Mr. Reuben Gentry's farm, about three miles from this place. The body was so much decomposed as to be very offensive, having apparently laid out several days after death. Mr. Street had been shot. The verdict was that he had been murdered by some person or persons unknown to the jury.

Mr. Street was a man probably 60 years of age. He came to this county to assist in settling up the estates of his father and father-in-law, who are deceased, and to receive his portion of those estates.

Since the above was in type a young man named John Henderson, of this place, has been arrested on suspicion of having committed the murder.—Danville Tribune.

CHARITY HOSPITAL.—The following is the report of this institution for the week ending at 12 o'clock last evening:

Admissions.....284
Discharges.....211
Died.....47
Total Remaining.....584

Of the discharge, 18 were of yellow fever, cured cases; and of the deaths, 27 were of yellow fever.—N. O. Delta, 14th

It is a long time since the delightful young poetess of Mississippi made her last appearance in our columns, yet she is not forgotten. Her return has been looked for and longed for by hundreds of her admirers. And here she is in all her beauty and sweetness:

LIFE'S TRIPLES.

There's a joy that transcends the most exquisite bliss
A dreamer e'er knew in his sweetest repose,
As slumber comes down with an angel-like kiss,
While the soft dews descend and their blossoms enclose:
Tis the blessed reflection that comes to the heart,
When loved ones speak gently and say we are dear;
To see the brow darker when'e'er we depart,
And the smile bears more brightly when'e'er we are near.

There's a sorrow more hopeless than tears that embitter
The last lingering kiss on the cold brow of death,
Tho' they fall on the shroud, and there mockingly glitter,
While one we have worshipped lies slumbering beneath:
Tis that stillness of feeling—that utter stagnation
That creeps thro' the heart to its innermost core,
When the friendship, relied on with blind adoration,
Once false to its trust, must be trusted no more.

There's a world far more bright than the land of the roses,
Where earth's harshest sound is the coo of the dove,
Where the nightingale sings, while the young heart reposes,
And dreams that an angel is whispering of love:
Tis the realm which the children of genius inherit,
Where heart gives to mind a most exquisite tone,
Where creatures that dwell round us here, but in spirit,
Are breathed into life, and become all our own.

There are beings mysterious, who make themselves dearer
In a moment of time than an age could reveal;
Who breathe a soft whisper to haunt us forever;
Then leave us in wonder at that which we feel:

They are those whom we meet with but once in a life-time—
Bright souls almost free from earth's wearisome chain,
Who spread their fair wings for some happier sunshine,
Never more with their presence to blesse us again.

There's a treasure more dear than the life-stream that courses
In bright crimson beauty thro' every full vein,
That steals to the breast, and there sweetly discourses
The heart's secret feelings of pleasure or pain:

Tis the tear-drop that greets, when care-worn and weary,
We drop 'neath the weight of an o'erburdened heart,
And think that the world would be hopeless and dreary,
But still in that bosom there nestles forever

Some sweet little trifles the world could not buy.

DISGRACEFUL RIOT AND DESTRUCTION OF PROPERTY.

ONE of the most disgraceful riots that ever occurred in this city took place on Friday night last, the circumstances of which we have taken trouble to ascertain accurately, and they are as follows: Howe's menagerie and Myers & Madigan's equestrian troupe jointly exhibited and performed in this city on the vacant square near the jail, on the evenings of Thursday and Friday. On Thursday night a row occurred in a house of ill fame, a little west of the old hospital on King street, in which two or three of the circus people were concerned.

Two young men named Fawcet and Fraser, who it is said belong to the hook and ladder company in this city, were seriously injured, one of them getting his jaw broken in two places, from the blow of a decanter. The parties who inflicted these injuries were those connected with the circus, and consequently the friends of the sufferers vowed vengeance on the whole establishment. From the inquiries we have made, we have ascertained that the friends of Fawcet and Fraser were busy during the whole of Friday preparing for an attack on the circus establishment in the evening.

EVENING BULLETIN.

SATURDAY EVENING, JULY 21, 1855.

DISTRIBUTION OF CALIFORNIA GOLD.—The semi-monthly steamers from California come freighted with large quantities of gold, either in its crude state as it is taken from the mines, or in bars that have been assayed at the mint in San Francisco. This gold is generally consigned to a few bankers, express companies, or commercial houses in New York, not perhaps exceeding a dozen in number. The amounts thus consigned vary from sums of ten thousand to half a million of dollars, and in the aggregate amount to about three millions of dollars per month. The uninitiated in commercial and financial affairs may suppose that all or the most of this vast amount of gold actually belongs to the persons to whom it is shipped; but they, who so believe, err greatly. The gold thus accumulated in the hands of these few individuals is placed there for distribution over every portion of this extended country from Maine to Georgia, and over all the great West, even beyond the Mississippi river. The distribution is effected by means of drafts. Thus let us suppose that Pat Maloney is a miner in California, who from the products of his labor in digging gold wishes to send his wife, Mrs. Bridget Maloney, twenty-five dollars per month, she living, we'll say in this city. Now Pat will go to a broker or an express agent in San Francisco and buy a draft on New York, payable 60 days after date, for which he will have to pay in gold dust twenty-five dollars, and a premium of about 4 per cent. This draft Pat remits in a letter to his dear wife Bridget, who, on its receipt, can either send it to New York for collection, or, in consequence of its being Eastern specie funds, can get it cashed by any broker in the city where she resides.

Such an arrangement proves of great convenience to the miners, their friends and families; for there is no other mode in which a poor digger on the American fork, or on the Yuba river, can send his $10, $20, or $30 to his wife, children, or widowed mother residing on the banks of the Kennebeck, Illinois, or Wabash rivers, so safely, so cheaply, or so quickly, as by this wide-spread arrangement.

The result is that the West, which used to be rich only in lands and cheap living, while poor in money (and nearly everything else), the great means of progress and improvement, has undergone a great change. The high prices obtained for our cattle, breadstuffs and provisions, from the broadcast distribution of California gold among our people, has increased our wealth wonderfully, and brought us to a nearer level with the older States of the East.

TOMBOYS.—The public mind is awakening to the importance of physical education.

At the recent ladies' exhibition of gymnastic, calisthenic, and dancing exercises, given at Professor Stewart's rooms in Boston, Dr. J. V. C. Smith, mayor, in his speech to the parents and teachers while distributing the prizes, addressed them at much length on the importance of thus developing the muscular apparatus of children, and made the pertinent remark, "That the girls he knew when a boy who used to climb trees and fences with the boys, and who were called 'Tomboys' by their mothers, were now, wherever found, leading women in society, with strong healthy bodies and minds."

We copy the following from the Cannelton Reporter to show how things are done in that interesting town. We think that the editor of the Reporter fairly beats some editors of considerably more pretension in their own style:

The editor of the Democrat, not being able to longer sustain himself in the controversy which he commenced against us, has abandoned the field, and in his last issue skulks behind an irresponsible, miserable thing—a pitiable nothing—a stinking, loathsome, lousy, rotten lunatic—a disgusting scab among men—an associate of loafers, thieves, convicts, and vagabonds, that crawled from the dungeon of our county jail, some time ago, with crime and vermin hanging all about its pestilential body—and after being tried by a jury, was kept out of the penitentiary through the plea of insanity—came to Cannelton, where, through mistaken charity, the thing's father-in-law (for the monstrosity had a father-in-law) furnished it with bread and meat, until, getting tired of the leech that had fastened itself upon his family, he kicked it off, and after lying about various dirty holes in this place, stinking in the nostrils of everything decent—worse than a common vagrant—the thing gathered up its dirty rags, and in the darkness of night fled to Rockport, to save itself from being tarred and feathered and thrown like a slunk puppy into the Ohio river.

This nondescript is again abroad, and as it has occasional periods of sanity, when it exhibits a cunning belonging to the most darkly depraved nature, we will state that the thing is short and thickly set, with thick lips like a buck nigger, syphilitic blotches on its face, eyes look as if they were lined with red flannel, caused by drinking rot-gut whisky, head very much "swelled," and nose resembling a hog's accustomed to rooting in dung-hills, forehead low and hair dark. The animal, like the learned pig, is capable of performing a great variety of tricks—can mimic a lawyer or preacher—fond of money, but never has any—might steal—people should be on their guard.

The above description is given for the benefit of the public. Our readers can see for themselves what kind of an animal Hicks has thrust forward to do what he dare not do himself.

Death Caused by a Corpse.—In a farm house near Liberty, Mo., the mistress of the house became ill one morning, having, according to symptoms, received an attack of cholera. Her husband had left the house at daybreak, and her only daughter, who was then with her, sent for a physician. After a few hours the doctor arrived, and was met at the door by the sobbing girl with the cry, "She is dead!" He was conducted to the room where the corpse lay, examined it, and directed the daughter not to allow the interment until twenty-four hours had elapsed. He had scarcely done so when the corpse nodded significantly. The daughter saw the motion, and was so horrified that she fell down dead on the spot. It is a well-known fact that persons who die of the cholera retain the warmth of the blood for a long time, frequently alarming bystanders by contraction of the muscles.

THE WHEAT CROP.—Two weeks ago, the Cincinnati Price-Current published an estimate of the wheat-crop. It was far below the yield, and about as near correctness as the Price-Current's statement of the hog-crop of last year, and its predictions about the value of the product. We find in the New York Herald an estimate, which is nearer the mark, and we give it. The estimate of the crop of '49 in the table is taken from the U. S. census report:

	Bushels Wheat.	1849.	1855.
Ohio.....	14,457,000	25,000,000
Pennsylvania.....	11,212,000	21,000,000
Virginia.....	11,212,000	15,000,000
New York.....	13,121,000	16,000,000
Alabama.....	294	700,000
Illinois.....	9,414,000	23,000,000
Indiana.....	6,214,000	19,000,000
Kentucky.....	2,142,000	3,500,000
Maryland.....	4,494,000	5,000,000
Michigan.....	4,925,000	7,000,000
Missouri.....	2,981,000	5,500,000
Tennessee.....	1,619,000	4,000,000
Wisconsin.....	4,286,000	9,000,000
Total.....	92,086,000	156,700,000

This shows an aggregate of nearly one hundred and fifty-seven million bushels of wheat, as the estimated product of the crop in 1855 in 14 States, which is an increase over the production of 1849 of over sixty-two and a half millions of bushels.

If we continue our figures for the balance of the States and Territories we shall be able to form some estimate of the entire crop of the country. We put them down as follows:

	Bushels Wheat.	1849.	1855.
Arkansas.....	199,000	30,000
California.....	17,000	150,000
District of Columbia.....	17,000	20,000
Connecticut.....	41,000	50,000
Delaware.....	482,000	550,000
Florida.....	1,000	1,000
Georgia.....	1,082,000	1,200,000
Maine.....	296,000	400,000
Massachusetts.....	31,000	50,000
Mississippi.....	137,000	200,000
New Hampshire.....	1,000	200,000
New Jersey.....	196,000	400,000
North Carolina.....	1,601,000	2,000,000
Rhode Island.....	2,130,000	2,500,000
South Carolina.....	1,066,000	1,200,000
Tenn.....	1,000	100,000
Vermont.....	535,000	65,000
Minnesota.....	1,000	500,000
New Mexico.....	196,000	400,000
Oregon.....	211,000	500,000
Utah.....	107,000	500,000
Kansas.....	200,000	200,000
Nebraska.....	200,000	200,000
Total.....	8,382,000	11,872,000
14 States in previous table.....	92,086,000	156,700,000
Grand total.....	100,468,000	168,572,000

By the above it will be seen that our estimates make one hundred and sixty-eight and a half million bushels of wheat as the total yield of the present season, which is sixty-eight million bushels over that of 1849. The value of the wheat crop in that year is put down in the census report at $100,000,000. If we value the present crop at a dollar and a quarter per bushel [in New York], which will probably be its average price, it will be worth an aggregate of more than two hundred and ten and a half millions of dollars.

A CHIP OF THE OLD BLOCK.—Among the Kinney expeditionary party is a youth only fifteen years of age, a grandson, we believe, of Daniel Webster, and named after him. How he behaved during the shipwreck is thus told in a letter from one of the party:

The only one who seemed to have no care at all on his mind was little Daniel Webster, who whistled and sang as if he was in his element, to the great horror of one of the more sober-minded, who recommended him to confine himself to saying his prayers and other exercises appropriate to so solemn an occasion. This conduct, however, was entirely consistent with his behavior throughout the voyage, for Dan had acquired from his boating excursions in Marshfield harbor the expertness and freedom from fear of an old salt. Even in the afternoon previous, as we were running direct upon St. Philip's Keys, he was sitting high up on the cross-trees, coolly surveying the dangers, when he had struck the rock he might have been pitched fifty feet into the water.

LOSSES BY MAIL.—The following is from the Postmaster General:

By a highly important regulation it appears that in every case of loss by mail, whether supposed to be the result of casualty or depredation, the Department should be informed without delay of all the circumstances connected with it. Particular care should be taken to state the name of the office in which the letter was placed; the day on which it was so placed, and whether by the writer himself or by another person; the day on which, if at all, it was actually mailed; the name of the writer and the person addressed; the amount, and, if practicable, a particular description of the valuable enclosure; the amount of postage marked on the letter; the office to which addressed, and whether mailed direct thereto or to another office for distribution; and the route by which it was sent, with any further particulars that may aid the Department in its investigation respecting the cause of the loss.

FURTHER BY THE CANADA.

The main facts have been already stated of the unsuccessful attack upon Sebastopol on the 18th of June. The papers by the Canada contain further details, including the dispatch of Pelissier.

When Lord Raglan saw the defeat of the first French division, he hastily ordered an attack on the Redan, to effect a diversion in favor of the French, although it was previously intended that the British should not attack until the French had captured the Malakoff, inasmuch as the Malakoff's guns quite commanded the Redan. So far as civilians at a distance could judge, Lord Raglan's order to attack was a great error, for, the British storming party, not being sufficiently strong to carry the works, were repulsed with much slaughter.

A curious incident is that Gen. Eyre, with 2,000 British troops, penetrated into the suburbs of Sebastopol itself, and held possession of the houses in one street for seventeen hours, but, being totally unsupported, he retired at nightfall. The inference is that, had the assault been general, or systematically planned, the city would have fallen, or at least its first line of defense might have been carried.

A dispatch from Berlin dated July 4 states that the town of Nystadt, at the entrance of the Gulf of Bothnia, has been bombarded and destroyed.

Liverpool Provision Market.—Messrs. Richardson, Spence, & Co. report beef without demand, but stock much reduced. Nothing doing in pork. Bacon in active demand at the decline, 49s being the extreme quotation. Lard had advanced to 16d; the stock on hand was about 2,000 tons. Messrs. Bigland, Athya, & Co. report bacon dull and lard advanced to 53s a 54s.

Seven slaves belonging to Wm. McCoy and others of Pendleton county, Va., eloped a few nights ago, each one taking a horse with him. They are doubtless making their way to Canada. A considerable number have run away from Pendleton and Hardy within a year or two, and some of them, who are in Canada, are in the habit of corresponding with their friends in their own neighborhood.

The annual commencement of Harvard took place last week. Among the graduates we notice James Many Seawell, of this city.—He delivered a dissertation, "The French Bar."

The sprightly and agreeable letters of the lovely and accomplished "Dora" are always most welcome:

To the Editors of the Louisville Bulletin:

BARDSTOWN, July 1855.

Blessings on the dear little village, where warm hearts, and bright flowers, and minstrel girls give so sweet a welcome! I wish no fairer "city of refuge" when I fly from metropolitan diversions and summer heat. Very quiet and uneventful, to be sure, are the long days to us in the village; save now and then, when a breeze of gaiety comes over the green cliffs to our provincial homes.

Go to our "Lover's leap," and look over the mill stream to the picturesquely hill beyond.—Through grand old forest trees, green and leafy now, you catch a glimpse of a noble looking villa reposing in sylvan shade and beauty. Well, one evening last week this hospitable suburban mansion was filled with the beauty and fashion of our favored bourg. A very magic palace looked the stately dwelling—a very fairy-land, the artistically arranged grounds, as we neared the scene of festivity. Countless sparkling lights flashed from the tall trees, far and near, brightening the green leaves and gay flowers, and gayer faces of the youthful promenaders, out in the free, fresh, flower-perfumed air. A bridal party was the brilliant reunion, and very beautiful was the fair young bride, and very noble and manly, and happy the dark-eyed groom.

Of a score of "divinities," bewitching and lovely enough to "shape" the destiny of any impressive masculine, two visions are brightest—the young daughter of our hostess, a regal-looking girl, with that high-bred air attainable by the innately refined woman alone, and a dazzling, dark-haired, brilliant-eyed beauty, who is gentle and unaffected in spite of her belle-dom—"The starry dews and the genial sun" of the South have heightened the rare loveliness of this sweet face.

From Kalorama, my Utopian school home (a charming spot—a pleasant drive from the city, after sun-set), comes the "earnest voice" of sweetest and sprightliest "Katy-did" that ever sang queer, "mystic stories." A benison on the little sheet, rich in scintillations of bright minds and the effusions of warm, young hearts! Its advent dispels the lassitude engendered by July heat. Not for that alone is it a welcome messenger to me—it brings such sweet memories of school days, of dear young friends, of revered and loved instructors! With the flowers and "Katy-dids" of next year may this little annual come again!

Erecting "chateaux en Espagne" is the most agreeable of all labors these warm days; and, for diversion, it is just the season to read "Thalatta" and "Lotus-Eating," and to wander in fancy in the delicious shady spots, the gay, brilliant places so beautifully depicted.

When I tire of this ideal enjoyment, and, for more tangible pleasures and greater gaieties, go to some of the alluring, unrivaled resorts of our own Kentucky, I shall write again.

DORA.

The Trenton State Gazette, July 18th, says:—"We yesterday heard of a distressing accident which occurred to Professor Richardson, Principal of the Female Seminary at Freehold, on Saturday last. Preparations were on foot to give a grand exhibition of the school on Monday last, and the Principal, who had by some means lost the use of one of his eyes, was busy superintending the arrangements, one of which was to have a chandelier suspended from the ceiling. In order to do this it was necessary to have a hole bored through the ceiling. A carpenter was employed to do this, and when he had completed the task, the Professor being in the story above, stooped down just as the auger pierced the floor, when the instrument struck him in the other eye, depriving him of the sight of that also. This gentleman was esteemed by all who knew him, and his severe affliction will be a source of deep regret to a large circle of acquaintance."

PUBLIC NOTICE.

RUSHTON, CLARK, & CO.'S GENUINE

Cod Liver Oil,

FOR CONSUMPTION, SCROFULA, &c.

THE late firm of Rushton, Clark, & Co. being dissolved by the death of W. L. Rushton (the only Rushton ever connected with the firm), THEIR GENUINE COD LIVER OIL will be sold by the surviving partners and sole successors. It was Mr. Clark who went to Newfoundland to superintend its manufacture, and he is the only Druggist who ever went from the U. S. for that purpose, and as he will continue his supervision of that business, we will not warrant our OIL PURCHASE, or success, in our sales in this country. It will be particularly to see that the signature of HEGEMAN, CLARK, & CO., or RUSHTON, CLARK, & CO., is over the cork of each bottle. Hundreds of persons who had been using the Oil of other makers, are now compelled to health by the RUSHTON, CLARK, & CO. Oil.

For the 20th instant, I. B. son of Wm. D. and Susan A. Alford, aged 13 years and 7 months.

On the 21st instant, at 4 o'clock, CHRISSEY BELL FRIDDLE, in the 21st year of her age.

Her funeral will take place at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, from the East Baptist church, on Jefferson street. The friends of the family are invited to attend.

On the 19th instant, at the residence of his father-in-law, Dr. B. W. Dudley, in the vicinity of Lexington, Ky., John W. Rushton, aged 30 years and 3 months.

On the 21st instant, at 4 o'clock A. M., Mrs. Wm. McDermott, in the 67th year of her age.

Her funeral will take place to-morrow evening at 4 o'clock P. M., from the corner of Fifth and Market streets. The friends of the deceased are respectfully invited.

LATEST NEWS.

LOOK OUT FOR THIEVES.—The residence of Mr. John M. Carter, on Walnut street, between Sixth and Seventh streets, was entered this morning, between two and three o'clock, by one of the light-fingered and lighter-headed gentry. The inmates were aroused by his movements, and the rascal hastily decamped, taking with him about seven dollars found in the pockets of Mr. C.'s pantaloons.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.—Elder S. S. Church will preach to-morrow at 11 o'clock, A. M., at the Christian Church, on Hancock street, between Jefferson and Green streets.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.—Elders Henderson and Church have announced their valedictory discourses at the Christian Church, on Lord's day; one at 11 o'clock A. M., the other at night. Other duties call them home. But the meeting maintains its interest now, as much as at any former time. One of the most interesting of this remarkable series of meetings extending now through three months of almost daily service, was held yesterday afternoon. Several persons were immersed and others presented themselves for immersion. They will be immersed at Beargrass creek this afternoon, after an address at the church, at 4 o'clock. Over two hundred persons have joined the church during this meeting.

The Christian congregation have requested Elder D. P. Henderson to take charge of the congregation as their pastor, and we understand that the probability is strong that he will do. He should find this an excellent point for building up the Christian University in Missouri.
